(Reference) Policy on Cross-shareholdings

The Company will hold such shares as it deems necessary for such purposes as maintaining and strengthening business relationships, after examining their potential to contribute to the enhancement of the Company's corporate value over the medium- to long-term and other factors. Based on such examination, for those shares for which continued ownership is of limited significance, the Company's policy is to sell while taking into account such factors as the market impact and the business aspects of the sale.

Also, each year, the Board of Directors examines the appropriateness of holding individual cross-shareholdings by specifically examining factors such as whether the purpose of holding the shares is appropriate and whether the benefits and risks associated with holding the shares are commensurate with the cost of capital.

During the current fiscal year, the Company sold all or part of holdings of six firms.
